MILESTONES

2001	• At age 16, Lauren first discloses the abuse she endured for six years at the hands of her live-in nanny, Waldina Flores, and learns that she is one of 42 million survivors of child sexual abuse in the U.S.
October 11, 2002	Waldina Flores is convicted.
2003	• Lauren Book passes her first set of state laws to protect children from sexual abuse and better serve survivors, the first of nearly two dozen legislative victories in this arena.
2007	• Lauren's Kids is founded and becomes an official 501(c)(3).
April 2010	• Lauren embarks on her first 'Walk in My Shoes' awareness and advocacy walk across the state of Florida, walking 500 miles from her childhood home in Miami to the steps of historic Florida Capitol in Tallahassee.
2011	• Lauren's memoir, It's OK to Tell , is released.
2011	• Lauren submits testimony to the Children and Families Subcommittee of the U.S. Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions in response to the Penn State scandal.
March & April 2011	• Second 'Walk in My Shoes' statewide awareness walk; Lauren lengthens the route to walk 1,000 miles across Florida from Key West to Tallahassee during March and April, National Child Abuse Prevention Month and National Sexual Assault Awareness Month.
Jan. & Feb. 2012	• Third 'Walk in My Shoes' statewide awareness walk; Lauren lengthens the route to walk 1,500 miles, beginning in Key West and walking north, zig-zagging from coast to coast before reaching the steps of the Historic Florida Capitol in Tallahassee.
Spring 2012	• Florida schools begin implementing the Pre-K/Kindergarten installment of Lauren's Kids' Safer, Smarter Kids prevention education curriculum.
March & April 2013	• Fourth 'Walk in My Shoes' statewide walk. Lauren Book walked 1,500 miles from Key West to Tallahassee during March and April, National Child Abuse Prevention Month and National Sexual Assault Awareness Month.
April 2013	• In the wake of the Penn State scandal, Lauren's legislative advocacy helps influence the passage of the toughest abuse reporting law in the country, designating ALL Floridians as mandatory reporters of suspected abuse and increasing penalties for failure to report.
2013	• Following the expansion of Florida's mandatory reporting law, Lauren's Kids and the Florida Department of Children and Families roll out the "Don't Miss the Signs" campaign, educating adults on the signs of abuse and their responsibility to report; the award-winning awareness campaign has been replicated throughout the country.
Spring 2013	• State of Florida and Lauren's Kids create Safer, Smarter Kids abuse prevention education curriculum for children with special needs and Trauma Informed Care training for foster parents who foster children with sexual abuse backgrounds.
Summer 2013	Governor Rick Scott signs law to create Lauren's Kids specialty license plate.
December 2013	• Lauren Book is named the 2013 L'Oreal Paris Woman of Worth by actress Lea Michele.
March & April 2014	• Lauren Book walks 1,500 miles across the state of Florida for the fifth time, empowering survivors with the message that It's OK to Tell, and preventing abuse through education and awareness. Lauren's advocacy helps pass the most comprehensive legislative package on child protection in the history of the state of Florida.
April 2014	• Lauren is named one of Cosmopolitan Magazine's 'Fun, Fearless Females.'
